A Machine Gunner

Pvt. John Robbins Holds That Rating and Is Back On His Beloved Sea

Pvt. John Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Robbins of Pascataway, Rockport, was inducted last October in the service of his country and since that time has been keeping up the family tradition of going down to the sea in ships.

After being at Fort Eustis, Va., for a month Robbins was requested to take a stereoscopic test and was found to have stereoscopic vision qualifying for Master Gunner's School at Camp Davis, N. C.

Still hoping to get on the sea he refused the opportunity and finished his training at Fort Eustis, Va. At the end of eight weeks he was given rigid classification tests and having had complete knowledge of the sea was placed in a Mine planter crew at Fort Warren, Mass., where he further studied the 50 cal machine gun and brushed up on navigation and seamanship.

At the end of this period he was given another test and qualified as a machine gunner and was immediately transferred to the New Mineplanter Abbott in Boston. His dream finally came true. He is back to his native element and is proving that Maine boys still go down to the sea in ships, even in the Army.

Previous to induction he was employed by the Camden Shipbuilding Co. as shipyarder.

Surplus Catch of Alewives Goes Again To Ramsdell Packing Company

The 1943 surplus catch of alewives has been sold to the Ramsdell Packing Company of Rockland for the second season. The pack last year went to lease-lend purposes, with the packing company preparing 11,547 cases, the processing method similar to that of salmon canners.

The town received $1732.05 from the Ramsdell Packing Company, and $27.66 from small messes sold, a total of $1760.71. Expenses of setting in the gear and taking the fish came to $1114.92, leaving a balance of $644.79, in favor of the town.

[EDITORIAL]

BRICKER STANDS THE TEST

With the Presidential primary elections less than a year away public interest in the prospective candidates is on the rapid increase. The Gallup poll is endeavoring to find what the folks at home think of them and as subject No. 1 has taken Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, who doesn't stand anywhere as near the top as Willie or Dewey, but who may be the man to watch in case of a protracted deadlock in the Republican National Convention. The Gallup figures show the Bricker sentiment in Ohio as 54 percent favorable, and 37 percent unfavorable, with 9 percent of those interviewed as "unfamiliar" or having "no opinion." Strangely enough the same figures apply to President Roosevelt, if he runs for a fourth term. The poll extended to neighboring Middle West States, the ratio favorable to Bricker was two to one. Many Republican leaders are said to be favorable to him, but as yet with the rank and file he is known only as a governor who has shown wise management of his own commonwealth and as an amazing vote getter. And after all it is the latter which counts, politically, in any man's land.

WOULD SETTLE TAX QUESTION

The Republican desire to see the income tax muddle adjusted found expression Wednesday when seven Republican members of the finance committee, among them Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, and Senator Danaher of Connecticut presented the following statement:

"The Republican minority members of the Senate Finance Committee take this means of respectfully notifying their House colleagues: (1) That they will welcome speediest possible action on the pending tax bill in order that the Senate may conclude this essential legislation ahead of any congressional recess; (2) that they will unconditionally support the earliest possible application of adequate 'withholding taxes' as part of the following; (3) that they will unconditionally support the 'Ruml method' for putting income tax liability totally on a current basis; (4) that they believe the Senate Finance Committee can agree upon this general program within 48 hours after it receives the bill."

Throughout the country there is a very general desire to have the matter adjusted as expeditiously as possible. Many are desirous of paying the full amount of their assessment, but are delaying such action until Congress indicates what it is going to do about the matter.

WHO IS IN THE WRONG?

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who was supposed to be on her way out, a long time ago, has succeeded in getting a "favorable response" from John L. Lewis in regard to her suggestion that soft coal operators guarantee his United Mine Workers a minimum of six days of work a week. She is convinced that her compromise is "fair, reasonable and in the public interest," but when this editorial was written Secretary Perkins had received no reply from the operators. With no first hand knowledge as to who is right and who is wrong in this controversy we are unable to suggest an opinion, except that anyone who is unwilling to talk "compromise" in such a national crisis, must be wrong.

NORTH AFRICAN MOP-UP

The war map in Tunisia daily grows more interesting and more satisfactory, even though the press despatches leave us in considerable suspense as to just when the Allied Nations will have completed their North African Spring housecleaning. One day they tell us that the final clean-up is "almost in sight," and the next day the governmental "gloomy Guses" warn us that it will be a long, hard fight before the enemy is finally conquered. We can afford to exercise much patience in view of the fact that the end of this campaign is "somewhere in sight."

FERNALD QUILTS THE ARMY

Lieut. Roy L. Fernald of Winterport has been given a medical discharge from the Army because of high blood pressure, and will return to Maine at once. Political leaders and voters in general are wondering if this means he will enter the forthcoming campaign for the gubernatorial nomination.

Rockland Lions

Welcome King Lion Conant Back To the Chair—Burrows Guest Speaker

King Lion Ralph P. Conant, absent during the Winter because of his duties as Representative to Legislature, was back in the chair at Wednesday's session of the Rockland Lions Club, and regaled the members with some amusing incidents at the meetings of the Augusta Club, which he regularly attended—necktie parties being a feature. An early visit from Augusta members may be expected.

King Lion Conant announced the State convention of the Lions, to be held in Augusta June 4 and 5, and Lion Bill Kelley, a visitor from the Camden-Rockport Club urged Rockland to at least send delegates.

Acknowledgment came from Past King Lion Frank H. Ingraham of a remembrance received from the boys during his period of convalescence.

Another visiting Lion was Rev. William E. Berger of Camden, who received a hearty greeting after a long absence.

Introducing "Jerry" Burrows as guest speaker Frank A. Tirrell told a court story at the former's expense, later to be repaid in kind.

Jerry prefaced his talk by piling in front of him a formidable collection of law books and documents which he extracted from the realms of a large brief case. What promised to be a dry dissertation on law ended with the reading of a single paragraph from an old law report, and Mr. Burrows swung onto his real topic, which was his experience in being admitted to the Supreme Court in Washington, D. C., while Charles Evans Hughes was its Chief Justice. His description of the various members of the Supreme Bench was exceedingly interesting.

Mr. Burrows referred briefly to some of his experiences while acting as county attorney. On two occasions he had been obliged to prosecute two of his former schoolmates.

At next week's meeting the Lions will hear many interesting facts about China, from an authority.

Lions Robert C. Gregory, E. O. Kenyon, and Willis R. Vinal were named as a nominating committee.

ASH POINT AIRPORT OPENED

Formal Exercises Held Yesterday—Flag Raising Coincident With Brunswick Dedication

The huge naval airport at Ash Point, Owl's Head, was formally commissioned yesterday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock the ceremonies being conducted under the direction of Lieut. James W. Flood, commander of this branch of the Navy.

The exercises commenced with the playing of a stirring march, with U.S.O. equipment, in charge of Albert Fitzpatrick and Fred Hurley, both of Boston, officials in charge of the U.S.O., unit headquarters in Rockland and serving various branches of the service between Damariscotta and Machias.

The invocation was by Rev. Ernest O. Kenyon of St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Lieut. Flood in his address said that "another mighty arm of the U. S. Navy was nearing readiness for the defense of this section," and that "we all hope and pray that this port, through its performance, will prove beyond a doubt that it was well conceived and carried out."

Ensign Forest D. Richardson, representing Commander J. I. Merrill of the U.S. Naval Section Base, was introduced and spoke briefly, extending best wishes to the personnel of airport on the commissioning. He said, "It has been a pleasure to work with the officers and men of the air facility." As Ensign Richardson talked two planes of the civilian defense unit soared overhead.

Others speaking briefly were Lieut. John F. Ryan, representing Port Captain Isaac L. Hammond of the U.S. Coast Guard; Mayor Edward R. Veazie, who has taken great interest in the project since its inception and Walworth Simpson of the contracting firm of Wyman & Simpson, who have labored through a difficult winter.

Sgt. Michael Ristanio, who volunteered his services was bugler.

The speaking was interrupted at 3.30 when word was received by Lieut. Flood that the airport at Brunswick had just been commissioned. At this point, Lieut. Flood ordered the United States flag raised, a detail of Naval Reserve men standing at attention while the flag was unfurled. The group standing outside the administration building stood at attention while strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" came from the speaker of the U.S.O. unit.

Following the flag raising Eino Anderson, first selectman of Owl's Head, spoke briefly and the final speaker was Ensign Peter Hakman, C.E.C., U.S.N.R., resident official in charge of the airport.

The benediction was by Rev. James F. Savage, pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic Church. Following the program, men of the airport, served ice cream, cake and coffee to the officers and invited guests present.

Others there included: Lieut. Chester B. Allen, medical corps, U.S.N.R.; Lieut. J. P. Hartnett, U.S.N.R.; Warrant Officer Paul H. Bailey, U.S.N.R.; Joshua N. Southard, overseer of the poor; Van E. Russell, chief of the Rockland Fire Department; Laurence K. Mansfield, Chief of Police Rockland; J. Dana Knowlton and John Garnett, selectmen of Owl's Head.

Lieut. Flood read a letter from the Commissioner of the Air Force at San Diego, California, assigning Lieut. Commander John C. Alderman of the U.S. Navy to have charge of the airports in this section of the State. Simultaneously with the commissioning of Rockland's airport, the airports at Brunswick, Sanford and Lewiston-Auburn were formally put in service.

Residents of Thomaston were treated to an interesting spectacle Wednesday, when the freight train arrived at the Maine Central station, and from its cars paraded 31 Holstein cattle, all the way from Kansas City, and ready to take up their new duties in connection with the Maine State Prison's range cattle program. All thoroughbreds; also bred.

For nobody did this cavalcade have a more consuming interest than Warden "Jack" Welch, in the back of whose mind several years ago lay the fundamentals of this new and important undertaking. The powers that be failed to warm up to the idea forthwith, and foreseeing the value that was to be the heritage of beef, he went ahead on his own hook last Summer and bought the nucleus of the herd he had in mind.

Two outdoor shelters were built for the newcomers in the spruce grove near the henry, and there the cattle remained all Winter, emerging in the Spring well and hearty, long-haired and frisky. Included in the lot were 38 Hereford and Angus cattle and a number of Holstein yearlings, with 25 heifers to turn onto the range.

As of today the herd totals 94 "critters," which might well be termed the pride of the Prison farm.

The new Commissioner of Agriculture, Carl R. Smith, accepted Warden Welch's invitation to visit the Prison farm and after inspecting the range cattle became eternally sold on the project. So the Department of Agriculture ordered several carloads of the thoroughbreds from Kansas City, and the State Prison experiment was being emulated in various parts of the State, notably Aroostook County.

"As time goes on," said Warden Welch to The Courier-Gazette Wednesday, "we will be raising not only sufficient beef to supply the Prison demands, but beef for other State institutions. The Prison makes use of about 50 head of cattle annually. The offspring in 18 months, will be supplying us."

The stock which arrived Wednesday cost the State $110 a head. The cattle range project will be under the direct supervision of Wilmot E. Dow, the Prison farm's capable superintendent.

The State Prison will live up to the Government's injunction of raising more produce the coming Summer, for its farm will consist of 210 acres, as against 171 which were seeded last season. The planting within the next few weeks will include 50 acres of yellow eyed beans, 35 acres of potatoes, besides large quantities of snap beans, sweet corn, carrots, beets, turnips, cabbages, and other vegetables which find their way into everyday use.

Also there will be a considerable acreage of ensilage corn, barley and oats. The Prison farm has its own grinding mill for oats and barley.

It's too early to do much planting, but always there's something to do on farm acres, and just now the inmates are denuding the gardens of rocks.

Some gardener is this tall and stalwart Warden of the Maine State Prison! Last year the crops which he supervised included among other produce almost 10,000 bushels of potatoes, of which 7600 bushels were provided for other State institutions.

Among other improvements being made at the Prison farm is a one-story cannery 35x90 feet, and next Fall it promises to be a very busy place, for already orders have been received from other institutions for 41,000 gallon cans of various vegetables, which will care for the demand made by State institutions.

From the small farm of other days the acres now tilled by the Maine State Prison represent a most striking contrast, and it all goes to show what may be accomplished by industry.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

That huge lump of anthracite coal which reposed for so many years in front of Fred R. Spear's office, and to which A. P. Bialsdell fell heir when he bought the property, stands there today a lonesome guardian of an abandoned business. It gives rise to a few questions: How long has it been there? How much does it weigh? What will be its fate?

When Box 37 sounded near midnight Tuesday Manager Romanoff of Park Theatre aroused from his slumbers in a state of natural concern because the box was in his immediate zone. So he called Hotel Rockland. Making himself known to the night clerk he asked: "Is the fire down our way?" "Sure," was the reply. "Where?" asked Mr. Romanoff. "Here in the hotel," said the clerk.

Sgt. Donald E. Smith who is at his Thomaston home from Fort Knox, Ky., writes to The Black Cat expressing surprise that no bananas can be bought up this way. He says: "The ceiling price on this fruit is so low that after costs and freight rates are paid, there is no profit or so little that storekeepers will not handle them. That is the storeowner's explanation." Sgt. Smith's address is: Co. B, K.G. A.F.S., Fort Knox, Ky., U. S. Army.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, but it was a wind of gale force which "blew" the ice out of Chickawaukie Lake Tuesday night and Wednesday, according to F. B. Sherer, our Rockville correspondent. "Only a week later than last year, in spite of the extremely cold weather."

My esteem for our country corresponds increases daily when I consider the interesting items they frequently contribute to this column. Bertha A. Bryant of Union adds this one:

"This item we think worthy of The Black Cat or any old color. Rats got troublesome in Mrs. Eva Sayward's henpen. She borrowed one of those cage traps, next morning she had a rat."

Last season the Prison farm raised $23,000 worth of "garden sass"—an increase of about 25 percent over the previous year, and the increased acreage to be handled this Summer should considerably enlarge those figures.

Within the Prison walls is heard the constant hum of industry, for all of the shops are working to capacity, the harness shop and the wood shop being the busiest. The wood shop is manufacturing furniture for the Adjutant General's office and other State departments, as well as equipment for the Coast Guard and Naval forces. The harness, by the Government's orders, must be sold to farmers, only. The tailor shop is also very busy, manufacturing clothing for other institutions.

The shop in which auto number plates were manufactured is not the busy establishment it has been in recent years, for the reason that the Prison is permitted to manufacture only 10 percent of last year's production—the 10 percent representing replacements and plates for new cars.

"Eventually," said Warden Welch, "the auto plates will be made from plastics and steel will be definitely out of the picture. We have experimented with plastics and it has worked out satisfactorily."

The "Big House" on Wednesday was sheltering 333 inmates, a very remarkable reduction from the Maine Prison's record high of 479. And it may be added, without undue praise, that the State has a mighty fine official looking after it.

ing they heard an unusual commotion in the pen and they went to see what the excitement was among the hens. And there was Papa and Mama Rat and 10 of their family, wishing they were anywhere but there. And the hens were looking on in perfect wonder."

"Fox Islander's" communication relative to mussels published elsewhere in this issue is referred to those entertaining Courier-Gazette correspondents, T. Raymond Pierce and S. Newton Broadbent, who seem to have modern ideas on the subject. Here's hoping that the country will soon be mussel-bound.

One year ago: The body of John Buckley of Boston was found in a floating skiff near the Bay Ledges, by two Vinalhaven fishermen.—All of Rockland's wards had been subjected to black-out tests.—Ralph L. ## To Stop Producing

Mussel Industry Will Be Suspended If Ration Points Remain

Unless OPA removes ration-point requirements on canned mussels, Maine canners will stop producing the new product, Commissioner Greenleaf advised Washington.

Because the sea mussel is a new product, Greenleaf said, the packers believed it should be sold on a point-free basis until better known, because the American housewife couldn't be expected to use ration points a pound is the present family would like.

In telegrams to the OPA and the Maine congressional delegation, Greenleaf urged that no points, or at most one point, be required in purchases of the product. Seven a pound is the present standard.

Maine mussel beds were commercially ignored until this year, and Greenleaf estimated the potential output for the first year at 2,000,000 pounds. In normal times Europe consumes a billion pounds, but the mussels are newcomers to the American market.

Chapin Class of the Universalist Church will meet Tuesday night with Mrs. Seabrook W. Gregory, Grove street.

Melody in Darkness. Author, Geneva Stephenson. Published by The Macmillan Company, New York.

GENEVA STEPHENSON
Author of
"Melody in Darkness" and
"Spring Journey"
(Macmillan)

We hark back to the 18th century for the inspiration of this exceedingly moving story. With glimpses of London life and its underworld, and with a bit of the time of Bath and Handel, and coffee houses, theatrical world, and fashionable society.

The key notes dwell around a blinded musician who came by his tragedy on a battlefield. Then comes, as there always should in a real story, a maiden; she is fleeing from danger toward London. Intrigued by her story as they meet in the deep forest, the blinded musician goes along with her. In the back of his mind there is hope that some help may come to him from London doctors to cure his blindness. Much trouble and danger is encountered in their journey.

Keeping the story intense with action and danger through the intrigue of trying to outwit enemies, the tale carries along with the revealing and spine chilling story with much of historical interest. The author Miss Stephenson of Columbus, Ohio, is a graduate of Ohio State University, and also studied for a time at the American Academy of Dramatic Art. She has taught English and Dramatics both at her Alma Mater and at Marietta College, and, more recently, has been active in radio—as lecturer, actress, dramatics director, script writer, program director. Most of her writing prior to "Spring Journey" (1939) was devoted to radio scripts. A really excellent story, well written.

Hardship prevails through many pages of this enthralling tale, with restless gypsy music and delightful bits of opera; the blind musi-

The Men's League

Gets Valuable Farm Hints From Wentworth-A New President

Ralph C. Wentworth, veteran county agent for the University of Maine extension service, making his first appearance before the Baptist Men's League, was guest speaker at the April meeting held last night in the church dining room. He discussed at length the food situation in Maine and gave valuable advice concerning Victory gardens, especially with respect to soils, seed and fertilizers. Mr. Wentworth said, "Everyone must produce all they can as the government is to take for the armed forces and lend-lease a large proportion of canned goods and other foods in 1943." Many questions asked at the open forum were answered promptly by Mr. Wentworth, who is thoroughly conversant with the problems of farmers in this section.

The league decided to have a meeting in May, with ladies invited and a committee, headed by John L. Stahl will have charge of the supper. Obadiah Kallach of Thomaston was guest of a member. Greetings from the league are to be sent to members because of illness: Rev. J. Charles MacDonald, his birthday falling today, and Frank H. Ingraham.

The following officers were unanimously elected: Raymond D. Bowden, president; Everett S. Blithen and Joseph E. Blaisdell, vice presidents; Herman M. Hart, secretary; Osmond A. Palmer, treasurer and Sidney H. Pierce, auditor.

Family Burned Out, and In Great Peril, Thanks Its Friends

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
We wish to compliment your paper on the perfect writeup about the fire which destroyed our home Sunday morning. We wish also to acknowledge through your paper the many acts of kindness of the citizens of Rockland and surrounding towns who unhesitatingly opened their homes, hearts and pocketbooks. Even before day-break food, clothing and money was given. These friends are too numerous to mention, it would take a special copy of The Courier-Gazette to list all the names and acts of kindness.

We deeply appreciate the way in which Chief Van Russell and firemen kept the fire from sweeping into their property.

No need for anyone to worry about what Rockland would do in a time of crisis. Its citizens have proved their spirit.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton R. Sawyer and family.

Stores in Rockland will be closed Monday, April 19th, in observance of Patriots Day.

FORGET RATIONED FOODS

Never before in the history of this Nation has it been so essential that every citizen have a Home Garden. It is patriotic and practical. It is the only way to fill the home larder despite rationing and at the same time release vital processed foods for the Armed Forces.

Agricultural Notes

Notice has been received that farm slaughtering may grade their own meat for sale without request for grading service. Indelible pencil is permissible.

Farmers selling rationed products must collect stamps for same and make reports to the county ration board. The report forms will be available about April 20.

Frank Reed, poultry specialist, gave a very fine talk on the future of the poultry business at a meeting of the Knox County Poultry Improvement Association held at Camden High School. Harry Wolcott, president of the organization, was in charge of the meeting.

Norris Waltz, Damariscotta, has a fine flock of young pullets. Although he feels that there has been changes made in his mash formula from week to week still the pullets are the best he has ever raised.

If poultrymen are having difficulty in getting all the grain they need they should write to either Wallace Spear, Lincoln County War Board Chairman, or Albert Orff, Knox County War Board Chairman. Their address is A. A. Office, Box 415, Rockland, Maine. Some companies have all the orders that they can fill while there are a few in the county that can handle more new customers.

The following officers were elected: Edward Clark, president; Fernald Bailey, vice president; Arlene McCurdy, secretary; Margaret McCurdy, treasurer; and Joyce Banks, club bearer. ## CHAPTER VI

"So we separated, expecting to meet at dawn. It was the 31st I ever saw of the 31 boat. But here's what happened to our 34 boat in Subic. First, remember it was dark—then hell, and the shore line was loaded with Jap field guns. None of us had ventured in there since the Japs took over. We had got in just a little while when a Jap searchlight spotted us and blinked out a dot-dash challenge, asking who we were. Since we didn't know the Jap code reply, naturally we didn't answer, but changed course, veering away. But the Japs were getting suspicious by now, and from over by Ilinin Point a single field piece opened up. None of it fell near us—maybe they were shooting at DeLong in the 31 boat.

"When we were about a beam of Sueste light another light came on to challenge us—this time from a ship—maybe that cruiser. We changed course to go over and have a look, but she was small fry—not worth a torpedo—the hell with her—we were headed for Binanga and the cruiser.

"By this time the Japs over on Grande Island realized something funny was going on—their light changed us, but of course we didn't answer. Then they broke out the 50-caliber machine-gun fire at us from Ilinin Point. We could see the tracers feeling for us, and then the fun started—big 3-inch shore batteries rumbling all over the bay and lights feeling for us. We could hear the shells whistle over our heads in the dark, and could have done without the Japanese, they had decided to risk a swim to the beach, where they could hide. But Ensign Plant and two men, who couldn't swim very well, decided to stay. What became of them the nine didn't know, and no one knows for sure to this day.

"But the first thing DeLong did was to post lookouts, and all day they stayed in that clump, with an eye on the Jap observation planes which flew over them in relays, watching a hot little skirmish between the Americans and the Japanese on the far shore of the bay. At one point the Japs were falling back, and there seemed to be a chance that they could make a run for it in daylight, rejoining the American lines. But never was it quite possible, and in the meantime they had spotted a couple of bancas, native boats, farther down the beach.

"Two men who were sent out to investigate, crawling on their bellies through the grass, returned to report the bancas were in fair condition. So when the sun had set they crawled to them and started getting them in shape. For rowing they had two paddles, a couple of spades, and a boat. They had to work fast and quietly, for the Japs were all around them—just as they were launching the bancas they heard Japanese voices not two hundred yards away.

"But a heavy wind came up, and at nine o'clock at night, both boats capsized. They righted them, and the shovels and the board were lost, and they now had only one paddle for each banca. Yet with these they continued to fight the head wind until three in the morning, when they were so exhausted that they decided to try the shore. So DeLong landed on what he hoped was Napo Point. They picked their way through the barbed-wire entanglement on the beach, and then found themselves up against a steep cliff.

"They kept very quiet until dawn, not knowing whether they were surrounded by Americans or Japanese. But when it became light, the first thing they saw was a Filipino sentry.

"Hey, Joe, got a cigarette and better tell his story for him.

"We answered, all right—with two torpedoes."

"So what to do? Somehow that torpedo propeller had to be stopped and stopped quick, or else a good hard wave slap on the torpedo's nose would blow us all to splinters. And at this point our torpedoman, Martino, used his head fast. He ran to the head and swiped a handful of toilet paper. He jumped astride that wobbling, hissing torpedo like it was a horse, and, with the toilet paper, jammed the vanes of the propeller, stopping it.

"We stopped for all this, but we couldn't afford to wait long. The cruiser's fire was lighting up the bay behind us. Ahead, all over Subic, hell was breaking loose. So we started up, gave her everything we had to get through that fire.

"With three motors roaring, and us skipping around in that rough water with everything wide-open, I guess we made considerable commotion. Anyway the Japanese radio in Tokyo, reporting the attack next day, said the Americans had a new secret weapon—a monster that roared, flapped its wings, and fired torpedoes in all directions. It was only us, of course, but we felt flattered. We got the hell out of there, and that was all there was to it."

"Well," said Kelly, "MacArthur wouldn't quite agree. He gave you the D.S.C. for what you'd done."

"But DeLong has the real story," insisted Bulkeley. "I pulled up outside the mine field off Corregidor to wait for him. Neither of us could go in until it got light, because otherwise the army on shore, hearing us in the dark out there, would think it was Japs and set off the mine field. But when the sky got light and I saw my boat was alone, I realized DeLong was in trouble. And since he's now a prisoner of the Japanese—if he's alive—we'd better tell his story for him.

"We answered, all right—with two torpedoes."

Suddenly a tracer hit its fuel tanks—they went in a blaze, the motor stopped, and now the boat was only drifting.

But even as we pulled alongside, those Japs, nervy devils, gave her hard rudder and tried to ram us. So Bulkeley tossed in a couple of hand grenades from the bow, and the boat took the light out of them. We went alongside, and Bulkeley jumped aboard her—into a foot of water, blood, and oil, for she was sinking fast. We'd been firing almost diagonally down through her sides and bottom.

Adna A. Pitman
Adna A. Pitman, 89, who was born here March 5, 1854, died April 8. She was the daughter of Herman and Nancy Ripley Pitman, one of a family of 12 children, of whom only one, Julia Morse Chapin, survives.

In her younger years, in common with many young people in Appleton, she found employment in Massachusetts, and for many years she and her sister Lucinda were residents of Stoneham, Mass. About 30 years ago they returned to their native town to spend their remaining years.

The Pitmans and the Ripleys, from whom she descended, were among the original settlers of Appleton and Union. Both families were of Massachusetts stock and Miss Pitman was one of more than 100 Mayflower descendants in this town.

Besides her sister she is survived by three nephews, Prof. J. Asbury Pitman of Belfast, Albert G. Pitman and John E. Chapin, and a niece by adoption, Mrs. Claribel Chapin Fuller; three cousins, Ashton Ripley of Rockland, Ada Conant of North Appleton, and Lois Freeman of Searsport.

Always interested in church work, after her return to her native town she became an active worker and in 1920 she united with the Baptist Church of which she had been a staunch supporter and faithful attendant whenever health permitted. She was a member of the W.C.T.U. for many years and her home was always open for its meetings, for cottage prayer meetings, Willing Workers or any branch of Christian work.

Of a friendly disposition, she had a smile and cheery word for all and her keen sense of humor and ready wit made her a welcome addition to any gathering. She will be greatly missed, and much sympathy is extended to the bereaved sister, sole survivor of the large family. It may be truly said of her, "She hath done what she could."

Funeral services were at the local church, Rev. H. W. Nutter officiating. Interment was in the Ridge cemetery. The flowers were beautiful. Bearers were Aubrey Fuller, Albert Pitman, Maynard Brown and Joseph Moody. [Contributed.]

MATINICUS

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Young have arrived home from Brunswick where they spent the winter with their daughter, Mrs. John Mitchell.

CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

The Ridge Church, St. George

Throughout this winter, work on the new pews and the new heating plant has progressed. The gasoline situation for more than a year prevented any first hand information by me; however, I know these objectives have been reached.

Things have so shaped themselves since the old church burned, as to have convinced me that God stood behind the faithful members who resolved that 150 years of Baptist history should not perish on that spot, beside their honored dead. Friends, powerful friends were raised up and unknown aid provided, but the constant daily helpfulness of many workers won through to victory.

Beside the scattered ashes of the old church I remembered a fund provided years ago by a great Baptist, for help for Maine churches. Although not a board member of that trust myself, all the members were my friends and with one exception all members of the Immanuel Baptist Church, Portland.

All these administrators knew of critical moments in building that church, when aid from unexplored and undreamed of sources, appeared and finally saved that great adventure in faith—a blazing epic in the religious history of Maine.

To these men I carried the story of the Ridge Church. Months passed until their allocations in February. The board voted and sent $1000 to the St. George people, free of any restrictions as to use. Early this last Fall one of the members of the Byron Greenough Church Edifice Fund was in my office. He inquired about the Ridge Church enterprise.

As he went out he said, "Holman make an application in January next. I am sure the board will give something more." I hesitated. Through the long weeks, in my imagination, I drove that Port Clyde road. I know almost every town and twist on it.

February came, I had asked for $250 but the board adjourned to March. Today, on this first day of Spring, Albert E. Neal, their attorney and treasurer told me they had doubled the amount to $500 and had sent Miss Harris a check—$1500 to a church none of them ever saw. Surely the good men do live after them. They kept faith with the trust Byron Greenough reposed in them.

THE 2nd WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

America...you've got to get tougher!

A MERICA — Let's be frank about it . . . so far, many of us back home have been fighting this war from an easy chair.

Many of us have bought War Bonds out of extra cash, out of money we didn't miss too much. We haven't been really tough with ourselves.

But this war is a hard, down-to-reality war. And many of our boys are dying in it.

We've got to buy MORE

So your government asks you to buy Bonds and more Bonds — to get really tough with yourself. We're asking you to give up the frills and "extras" for the rest of this war.

We know how human it is not to make sacrifices until the crisis drives us to it. In England they felt the same way until the bombs started falling. Now they can't do enough!

Bombs are such persuasive things. But just as persuasive ought to be the spirit of our brothers, sons, husbands — who are ready to give all. Think now . . . what are your dollars, compared to their lives?

If you could see

Look at it this way — suppose you had a magic carpet that could take you to Africa and New Guinea. Suppose you could hear the groan of American boys wounded, and American boys dying . . . Say now, how many Bonds would you buy?

That kind of war

THEY . . . are dying. And they will keep on dying until we drown the enemy in an overwhelming torrent of bombs, bullets, guns, tanks, planes, ships, and shells.

That's why we're asking you, in this one month of April alone, to lend Uncle Sam 13 billions of dollars — by buying War Bonds. 13 billions of extra dollars — over and above any buying that you'd be doing anyway!

A lot of money

Of course, 13 billion dollars is a lot of money. It'll take sweat and tears to raise it. It'll mean going without now. But also—it will mean savings now—to buy later. It'll mean giving up everything you can't square with your conscience, so that we, us, our children, can have a better, more decent place to live in when this war is won.

The drive is on

So during this month of April, if someone calls on you to ask you to buy War Bonds in this 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE, will you buy to the limit—and then buy more?

Better yet, will you go to your Bank, Postoffice, or wherever you're used to buying your Bonds — and buy NOW? Will you lend extra money this month? Money that can hasten the day of Victory? Money that can help to save American lives—perhaps your son's or your brother's or your husband's—by helping to shorten this war?

Money buys money

Remember, what you're really buying with your money is still more money. For after all, these Bonds are money! Money plus! Every dollar you put into War Bonds will bring you a dollar plus interest.

So the more Bonds you buy the better for you. Americans — Get Tough — with yourselves — for your country.
